WEDNESDAY MORNING, NOV 25 1863

Abuse of War Democrats.

The "peace on any terms" organs, and the meetings of sympathizers with treason are especially bitter in their abuse of those, who though they profess to be Democrats, according to the old and honest meaning of that word, are not willing at this crisis of the nation's life, to put their party above their country, but are ready to labor with efficiency and zeal in behalf of such measures as are deemed likely to secure the triumph of patriotism. We are aware that such need no defence from us. Their good works and words praise and justify them. No slander from tongues that speak well of secession and rebellion can tarnish their reputation, or in the slightest degree degrade them in the estimation of true and loyal men, and certainly they can well afford to be indifferent to the feeling manifested towards them by traitors at the North or at the South. The Cincinnati Enquirer, as if for the purpose of intimidation, recently threatened "to publish as a matter for future reference, the names of pretended War Democrats, who, in this emergency, when Democracy demands the support of all its disciples, throw their influence in favor of the Administration." Whether that paper or those published in Oregon, expect by such a terrible exposure, to blast the prospects and fame of those who dare to be faithful and patriotic, we know not, but we do know that such a list would be long and noble, and would comprise the names of nearly all the men who have given character and strength to the Democratic party in days that are past. It would be illustrated by the fame of Douglas,—whose last words were a clear avowal of the duty of patriots—of General Cass—of General Logan, the friend of Douglas, James Guthrie, Joseph Holt, Andrew Johnson, General Dix, Dickinson, and a crowded procession from every State in the Union, while on the other hand the Democracy of the present day has gone to misery and mortal corruption and putrefaction under the influence of the management of demagogues like Vallandigham and the Woods.

In Oregon, we have numerous instances of similar waiver of political allegiance in favor of the more lofty duty of patriotism. At least three of the members of our Supreme Court, the U S District Judge, the Governor, the Chief Justice under the Territorial organization, and many other leading Democrats, who supported Douglas or Breckinridge in the last Presidential election, are now true and active supporters of the Government in its prosecution of the war against treason. They have left their old party organization, because in the hour of national peril, it was unfaithful and false, and when they deserted it, all vitality and political honor and devotion to the welfare of the country went with them, and its dead carcase became the prey of jabbering human crows and vultures,—a sure and certain proof that its life is gone forever. We will not give the names of these political scavengers for the community knows them, they are to be found in "peace conventions"—they denounce with set and repeated phrase all who love their country and support its institutions—they hail with rejoicing, tidings of national disaster or defeat, and their wrath is kindled to a glowing heat, when they hear that our glorious armies are winning victories over their brother rebels in arms.

But they are powerless for evil among us; their abuse can harm no patriot, and we feel sure that the time is not distant, when even they will deeply mourn over the stupidity and folly which hindered them from following the example of those whom they now cover with their base slanders, for so sure as there is good sense and intelligence in the land, a storm of popular indignation must shortly burst upon the heads of such unprincipled political knaves, overwhelming and sinking them in lifelong infamy.

We do not claim or suppose that the action of patriotic Democrats, who support the war, though commendable and right, is in any respect in advance of their duty as loyal citizens. The same obligation rests upon all—no matter what may have been the political prejudices of any—to vote, to fight, and to speak and act in every possible way so that the whole influence of all shall be on the side of patriotism and of the Union. No one, save a traitor, will do less, and all will find conscious satisfaction and honest pride in doing this, to the utmost of human ability, and if War Democrats, or any others, are assailed for so doing by the puny minions of Southern despotism or the disreputable tools of anarchy and treason, they may be assured that all good citizens will regard every such assault with scorn and contempt. It is always safe to do right, even though bad men get mad because of it, and there is no better advice for men of all political creeds than the wise and patriotic injunction—

"Be just and fear not
Let all the ends thou aim'st at,
Be thy Country's, thy God's, and Truth's."

No Snow on the Blue Mountains.—Mr West, who came down on the boat last night as Messenger, learns from parties that he met above, direct from Boise, that the snow has disappeared from the passes of the Blue Mountains.

Letter from Auburn

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.]

AUBURN, November 1[illegible], 1863.

Another term of the Circuit Court has passed and much business has been transacted. Some three divorces were granted, several fines assessed for selling liquor without license, and two candidates for the penitentiary are now on their way to Portland—one for originally stealing some $4,000 from his mining partners, and another for receiving stolen property, knowing the same to be stolen, and helping Mr Hyde to escape after arresting him for the crime, and receiving at least twenty-six ounces therefor. The prisoner Hyde had something over $6,000 in his possession when arrested, only $2,000 of which have ever come to light. Several enterprising individuals undertook to divide with Hyde, who by the bye was heartily tired of his own dishonesty, and prepared to return to his partners and restore his stolen gold dust to them, $2,000 being his own property. But Quigley would not consent, and he and a deputy sheriff brought Hyde to Auburn where, before any competent witnesses arrived, and really without the knowledge of dozens to whom Hyde had confessed his crime, they hurried up a preliminary examination, when no evidence appearing against him he was discharged. His friends purchased Hyde a horse, gave him back some $1,000 of the $6,000 they took from him, and advised him to be missing. In the meantime the citizens began to see into the affair, got out another writ, pursued Hyde, re-arrested him, also had Quigley and deputy sheriff Shaw arrested, and commenced a thorough investigation of the whole case.

The lawyer who had officiated as Hyde's counsel at the examination here came forward and made a deposit with the justice of the peace of some $400, which he had received, and Mr Quigley when arrested owned up to having a similar amount buried at home, where it was found safely "cached." Mr Shaw made no restoration or confession, and the grand jury the next week found a true bill against both Quigley and Shaw. On trial Quigley was found guilty, the jury returning their verdict about midnight. At daylight the next morning Quigley took occasion to leave unawares to his guard, and then ensued a scene, and a pursuit which resulted in the recapture of the gentleman, who was thereupon summarily sentenced to three years hard labor in the penitentiary and incarcerated in the jail, where he should have been from the first. Shaw in the meantime made his escape, mounted a horse kept in waiting by his friends and is now safely in California, where his family reside. Of course Quigley's conviction left no hope for him but in escape, or we should have sent a trio down. Hyde was sentenced for one year only, and considerable sympathy is enlisted in his favor from the fact that he would have returned the stolen money had he been allowed to do so. In the meantime the question of most interest remaining is, Who has the remaining $4,000 originally found on Hyde?

There was considerable life among us during the sitting of Court, but since that has concluded, times are duller than ever. I cannot see any resemblance to Auburn one year ago. At least three fourths of our 500 houses are vacant and ever will be until converted into fire wood. The glory of Auburn has departed, or rather it never came. It is true there are good, fair mines here but they fall most lamentably short of expectations, are less rich than anticipated, and bear no comparison to the Boise Basin or Jordan Creek, on the Owyhee. There will be mining done here and through Powder river generally for twenty years to come and Auburn will be a mining camp and trading post of some account, and it is not impossible that quartz discoveries may create a permanent importance, but the quartz is yet to be discovered that can do it, though there is a perfect net work of rich ledges found and prospected on the road from Burnt to Powder rivers, that will prove immensely valuable if they hold out as they now promise. These excepted, there are no rich quartz discoveries near Auburn, though Humboldt Basin, 30 miles distant has some ledges that promise to be fully their equal in time.

We are now frozen up, and waiting to be comfortably snowed in for the winter.

That last Malheur excitement and revival of "Sinker Creek" legends, was a terrible hoax. Some enthusiastic persons believed what another enthusiastic man imagined, and in the end never raised the color.

Owyhee is the land of promise now, and fully half of the present Auburnites are thinking to emigrate thither in the spring. Gold is abundant there, worth about $12 per ounce, and silver ledges are found by scores equal to anything ever known. My "feet" are there already, and you may expect to hear of my total removal in the spring. The present prospect is that there will be a tremendous rush thither in the spring.

I know of nothing more of interest.

Fiendish Murder at the Cascades.—We are informed by Mr West, Express Messenger for Wells, Fargo & Co, that a murder was committed at the Lower Cascades on Sunday last. A party of workmen on the Portage were drinking and having a good time generally up at the old Fort, when, without any provocation or warning, a man calling himself Corrall, drew a knife and plunged it into the breast of a companion, severing the arteries leading from the heart, and then, drawing the reeking weapon from the wound, deliberately lapped the steaming life blood from the blade, and thrust it under a bed. He was at once arrested, and brought down in irons to Vancouver and locked up Monday night. The murdered man's name is said to have been Shin.

A Slaveholder Driving his Slaves to the Recruiting Office.—A Baltimore correspondent writes:

A slaveholder in Dorchester county, in this State, recently said to his slaves that they had his permission to volunteer in the army but requested them when they had made up their minds to go to tell him and as they had driven him many a time to Cambridge, he would himself drive them in his carriage thither on this important mission. Sure enough they heeded his request and he drove them to town in his carriage on their way to Baltimore after fitting them out quite liberally. Lately he came to the city and went out to Camp Birney to get his certificate for the three hundred dollars substitute money for each slave, and to grant his obligations to free them when State laws would allow him to do so. They met him as affectionately and as demonstratively as sons would meet a father. But this is an isolated case in the dark tide of slavery.

Discovering and Confessing the Truth.—The Richmond Examiner is not at all delighted with the progress of rebel arms and seems to have but a poor opinion of the result, "as far as they have gone." It holds that notwithstanding all the victories which they claim to have won, they are gradually and surely being driven back and pushed to that point—the ocean, as Emil Schalk would say—when our [illegible] becomes irresistible. It thinks however, that the first Bull Run and Jackson's first campaign in the valley of the Shenandoah were great real victories, but beyond them, they have gained no victory worth naming.

The U S Sanitary Commission

The following beautiful testimonial to the Sanitary Commission is copied from the last number of the Atlantic Monthly, where it forms a notice of the little book entitled, "Hospital Transports."

[illegible] the institution [illegible] the Sanitary Commission [illegible] stretching at war [illegible] strong came forth [illegible] out of the very depths of the agony of [illegible] springs this beautiful [illegible] divine attributes. [illegible] which it has shown [illegible] during the endurance of the [illegible] which has been preserved among [illegible] than those of [illegible] of its [illegible] the little [illegible] brightly [illegible] not with the [illegible]. Theirs the dark and [illegible] by the spirit that [illegible] and [illegible] full of [illegible] never until every [illegible] will the record be complete. Nothing before that time, ever since the moment that its helping hand was first held forth comes the Blessed Voice: "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

An institution [illegible] of Government only permits [illegible] and opportunity [illegible] planting [illegible] of the people [illegible] their free will offerings, it is a noble monument to the intelligence [illegible] the [illegible] people [illegible] the right chord [illegible] touched. It is however not unnatural that doubts should exist as to the success of a plan so far reaching in its aims, and hitherto [illegible]. Stories have been circulated of a [illegible] disposition of its stores and trickery among its officers. Where these stories have found considerable credence they have been tracked to their source and triumphantly refuted, but it would indeed be hardly less than miraculous, if an institution ramifying so widely with agents so numerous and resources so extensive, should have no knaves among its servants, and no waste in its circulation. The wonder is that more leakage has not been proved than has ever been suspected. All that is necessary to remove floating doubts, to convince all minds of the wisdom which projected this Commission, and to warm all hearts up to its continued and sufficient support is a knowledge of what it has done and is doing, and purposes to do. This information the Commission has at different times and by piecemeal, furnished, necessarily by piecemeal since, as this book justly remarks, the immense mass of details which a circumstantial account of its operations in field and hospital must involve would prove nearly as laborious in the reading as in the performance. In this little volume we have, photographed, a single phase of its operations. It consists simply of extracts from letters and reports. There is no attempt at completeness or dramatic arrangement, yet the most elaborate grouping would probably fail to present one half as accurately a picture of the work and its ways as these unpretending fragments. It delights us to see the—we can hardly say cheerful, as that savors too much of the "self sacrifice" which benevolence sometimes tarnishes by talking about—but, rather, the gay, lively, merry manner in which the most [illegible] matters are taken hold of. Men and women seem to have gone into the service with good will and hearty love and buoyant spirit. It refreshes and strengthens us like a tonic to read of their taking the wounded, festering, filthy, miserable men, washing and dressing them, pouring in lemonade and beef tea, and putting them to bed and asleep. There is not a word about "devotion," or "ministering angels" (we could wish there were not quite so much about ladies), but honest, refined, energetic [illegible] women, with quick brains and quick hands, now bathing a poor crazy head with ice water, to be rewarded with the grateful smile from the parting soul—now standing in the way of a procession of the lightly wounded, to pour a little brandy down their throats, or put an orange into their hands [illegible] them up till they reach food and rest—now running up the river in a steam tug scrambling eggs in a wash basin over a spirit lamp as they go—now [illegible] on their way at all hours of the night, through torrents of rain into dreadful places crammed with sick and dying men, calling back to life those [illegible] from utter exhaustion, or again and again catching for mother or wife the last whispers of the dying—now leaving their compliments to serve a disappointed colonel instead of his dinner which they had nipped in the bud by dragging away the stove with its four fascinating and not to be withstood pot holes—and let the other's brow be wreathed with laurel who not only permitted this, but offered his cart and mule to drag the stove to the boat and would take no pay!

The blessings of thousands who were ready to perish, and of tens of thousands who love their country and their kind, rest upon those who originated and those who sustain this noble work. Let the people's heart never faint and its hand never weary, [illegible] of its abundance give to this Commission full measure pressed down, shaken down, and running over, that, wherever the red tread of war is seen its divine footsteps may follow—that wherever the red hand of war is lifted to wound its white hand may be lifted to heal—that its work may never cease until it is assumed by a great Christian Government, or until peace once more reigns throughout the land. And even then gratitude for its service, and joy in its glory, shall never die out of the hearts of the American people.

The Value of Chattanooga to the Rebels—Their Desperation and Necessities.—The Chattanooga Rebel of October 9th publishes a significant article on the rebel situation in Tennessee. After admitting that Rosecrans holds the door to lower East Tennessee, it argues that it is of the first importance that he should be dislodged, and adds:

"If we continue to gaze listlessly from the bold knobs of Missionary Ridge upon the comfortable barracks of the Federals below, then may we tremble for the next campaign, for as sure as there is any surety in the future the Spring of '64 must see us far from the borders of Georgia or near to the verge of destruction. Nail it to your door post, men of the South, and refuse to be deluded into any other belief. Food and raiment are our needs. We must have them. Kentucky and Middle Tennessee can supply them. Better give up the sea coast, better give up the Southwest, yes better to give up Richmond without a struggle and win the [illegible] than lose the golden field, whose grain and wool are our [illegible]. The enemy has just one army too many in the field for us. We must crush this overplus. We must [illegible] Stonewall Jackson['s] campaign. Destiny points the very place. Bragg [illegible] Rosecrans the victim. Defeat him, pulverize him, run him to the Ohio river and then close the war with the next Summer. And how? Nothing easier. The foe which has really stung our flank so long, once disposed of, our triumphant legions have a clear road before them. Pressing impetuously through the Winter, well shod and clad, they have only to meet a dispirited foe, retake the valley of the Mississippi, secure the election of a Peace Democrat to the Presidency in the Fall, and arrange the terms of treaty of Independence. These results can be accomplished nowhere else than in this Department. The Northwest is our real [illegible]."

I O O F.—The Grand Lodge of the United States commenced its annual session at Baltimore, Monday, Sept 21st. Representatives from twenty-four Grand Lodges and sixteen Grand Encampments were admitted as entitled to seats. The Grand Sire and the Grand Secretary submitted their reports. From the latter we obtain the information that the Order is in a very flourishing condition, especially in its financial department. California is excelled only by the jurisdiction of Pennsylvania. The contribution to the Wildey Monument Fund had reached the sum of $5,637 28, of which California [illegible] $1,680—about twice the amount contributed by Pennsylvania or Ohio. The reports show that the Grand Lodge is not only free from embarrassment but its financial condition is better than it has been for the past eight years. The thirtieth article of the By Laws has been amended to read: "Provided however, that any subordinate Lodge or Encampment working under the jurisdiction of the Grand Lodge of the United States, in any State, District or Territory [illegible] may be made subordinate to any contiguous State Grand Lodge or Encampment." The passage of this will permit the encampment of Oregon, Nevada Territory and Lodges and Encampments of the [illegible] to be attached to the Grand Lodge of California. The next annual communication will be held, commencing on the third Monday of September, 1864, at the city of Boston, Massachusetts.

"A Monster Apple."—Under this head, a late number of the Pittsburg (Penn.) Dispatch boasts of an apple raised in Alleghany county, which weighed one pound, two ounces, and measured thirteen inches in circumference. It says "such an apple is hard to beat in size." Another item in the same paper announces the production of another perfect Eve tempter weighing one pound and three ounces, and suggests that "such fruit should not be bought by the quarter peck." Pennsylvania's "some" on raising big apples, sure. Our country has just been plowed up, and we have a few orchards planted out over the State. The trees are in most instances mere saplings as yet, so fragile, indeed, as almost to bend beneath the weight of their own fragrant blossoms in the spring. We don't pretend to let midsummer find the slender twigs of our trees unsupported by firm and stout poles. They do very well, though, all things considered, and produce rather more than home consumption requires. The largest specimens of our pomological productions seldom find their way abroad, because they will not pack to advantage, and do not answer so well the wants of a foreign market. We dropped in yesterday afternoon at the packing rooms of Robert Hendrie, Esq, on Couch's Wharf, and took a look at some of the boxes and bins of apples he is preparing to send away on the steamer. He has on hand at present seven thousand bushels, and is making room for fifteen hundred bushels more, which he expects in the next few days. These apples weigh, in round numbers, one hundred and ninety-one tons. From these may be selected several tons—say twenty or thirty, and perhaps fifty—where the apples will average twelve ounces each; many will weigh a pound and a half each but as before remarked, he will not receive the larger specimens for export. We examined in a cursory way, many of his excellent varieties, and without picking over, weighed four of the variety known as Blue Pearmain, two pounds and twelve ounces. We found some large pears there also. We stopped at the establishment of R Pittock, and saw weighed some "Pound Pears," seven in number, which weighed twelve pounds and three quarters; the largest one alone weighed two and a half pounds, and measured fourteen and a half inches around the butt. The "Gloria Mundi" apple has reached three and a quarter and three and a half pounds in weight, and twenty two inches in circumference; apples of this description have been sold in this city. But we expect to do better when our trees get stout enough to bear heavy fruit.

Divine Services on Thanksgiving Day.—A very general religious observance of the President's and Governor's Thanksgiving Proclamations will be had in the churches of Portland to-morrow morning, services to commence at half past ten o'clock. Fitting discourses will be delivered by Rev. S. P. Caffrey, at the Vestry of the new Presbyterian Church, corner of Washington and Third streets, Rev. G.H. Atkinson, at the Congregational Church, corner of Jefferson and Second streets, Rev. D Rutledge, at the Methodist Church, corner of Taylor and Second streets, and we presume at all the others, but not having notice of the fact, we cannot announce services therein of our own knowledge. We hope everybody will go and take their purses with them, that they may contribute of their plenty in aid of the sick and wounded ones whose physical sacrifices form the ark of our moral, social, and political safety.

Circuit Court.—Monday was occupied by the jury trial of the case of Hull and others vs Holliday, the suit being for damages on account of the Holliday steamers not landing at the wharf near the foot of Alder street. The verdict was rendered yesterday for the defendant. The case of Lownsdale vs. Hull and others, in relation to the alleged taking of a band of cattle, is now on trial and has been argued. Judge Shattuck will charge the jury this morning. The next case in order for trial is that of Goodenough vs. Baker.

The Wilson G Hunt brought down about forty passengers last night, and no dust that we could hear of except sundry well filled saddle-bags, flasks and purses in private possession.

No Dispatch.—The stage arrived at half past eleven o'clock, last night, but brought no later news.

Acknowledgement.—A. C. Swift, Esq., of Bannock City, has favored us with late papers from Boise and Salt Lake.

Mr Editor.—Will you allow me, through the columns of your paper, to call attention to a policy that has and now does, to some extent, cause the tax-payers of our city to seriously reflect. The subject is deemed of great importance to the well being and future prosperity of our city.

The mode of improving our streets, and the policy heretofore pursued by the city authorities have been various and vacillating; hence the condition of our streets both in the past and at the present. It will not be denied that a large annual revenue has been collected for years past, a portion of which, from time to time has been expended in improving some particular street, or part of street, at the same time the holders of property adjacent to other portions of the public thoroughfare had to bear all the expense of such improvement besides paying a portion of the tax expended in improving a more favorite locality. Is such a policy reasonable, lawful or equitable? The unfairness and absurdity of such a policy are self-evident, but in spite of past experience, the present Council insists upon this outrageous, absurd, exploded and partial policy, and to carry out its design has levied a special tax of $10,000 upon all taxable property within the corporate limits, both personal and real estate, for the ostensible purpose of improving

ACKNOWLEDGMENT.—A C Swift, Esq, of Canyon City, has favored us with late papers from Boise and Salt Lake.

MR. EDITOR.—Will you allow me, through the columns of your paper to call attention to a policy that has and now does to some extent, cause the tax payers of our city to seriously reflect. The subject is deemed of great importance to the well being and future prosperity of our city.

The mode of improving our streets, and the policy heretofore pursued by the city authorities have been various and vacillating; hence the condition of our streets both in the past and at the present. It will not be denied that a large annual revenue has been collected for years past, a portion of which, from time to time has been expended in improving some particular street, or part of street, at the same time the holders of property adjacent to other portions of the public thoroughfare had to bear all the expense of such improvement besides paying a portion of the tax expended in improving a more favorite locality. Is such a policy reasonable, lawful or equitable? The unfairness and absurdity of such a policy are self-evident, but in spite of past experience, the present Council insists upon this outrageous, absurd, exploded and partial policy, and to carry out its design has levied a special tax of $10,000 upon all taxable property within the corporate limits, both personal and real estate, for the ostensible purpose of improving the streets. It is true they have not designated in the ordinance levying this tax the mode or manner of the improvement nor the particular street or part of street. Yet I am told they must have some [illegible] in view to have so [illegible] the cost thereof [illegible]. I will attempt to show that no general system of street improvement can be carried out with an annual tax of $10,000. I propose to [illegible] from Couch's Addition to the Penitentiary with the cross streets to First street. This will give us twenty blocks on Front street, two hundred and sixty feet each block, crossings included, making 5,800 feet of street, the cross streets twenty blocks of two hundred feet each 4,000 feet—total 9,800 feet at $6 per foot, which is said to be a low estimate for grading and planking a sixty foot street. At this rate the whole cost will not be less than $58,800. If the city pays one half this sum, $29,400, it will require an annual tax of over eight mills on the dollar on all the taxable property within the corporate limits of this city valued at $3,500,000 as per assessment roll. In addition to this about 5 mills will be required for general purposes, total 13 mills. Therefore I repeat the system is impracticable, as the charter will not under any circumstances, allow a tax of more than 10 mills on the dollar, one half of which never was intended to be levied except in special cases. It will be seen that this estimate has ignored all street improvements in the Couch Addition to this city. Yet I cannot offer the first good reason for doing so, as the holders of real estate in that portion of our city have always paid, and I believe will continue to pay their annual city tax though under no legal obligation to do so.

[Concluded to-morrow.]

New Store and New Goods.—The NEW FURNITURE WARE ROOMS of HURGREN & SHINDLER will be found on First street between Washington and Alder. Their assortment embraces many goods of a finer quality and design than have ever been imported to this city. They hope that by an extensive and well selected stock, by moderate prices together with long experience in their business they will retain their increasing patronage, which they have enjoyed. Their new place of business is one block west of the Pioneer Hotel and convenient to the Steamboat Landings.

Liver Complaint Cured.

CLEVELAND Ohio February 10 1860

Messrs A L Scovill & Co—Gents: I have been afflicted with the LIVER COMPLAINT for more than four years attended the most of the time with constipation of the bowels and, at other times with diarrhea. During the last year I had a constant pain about the liver and shoulder blade and in my left side, with great uneasiness when I lay upon it.

I took DR MOTT'S LIVER PILLS according to the directions for three months and am now a different man. I had taken them but a short time before I felt great relief. I am able to do as much work as most men. My health now restored. Yours truly DAVID PORTER.

A Case of Pleurisy Cured.—Troy Crawford county (Penn) Nov 10 1859—Messrs A L Scovill & Co—Gents: My son has been subject for two or three years past to pleurisy attended with pain in the side and was violently taken with it in the night. I had a box of DR BAKER'S PAIN PANACEA that I procured of your agent at Hayfield. I gave him a dose and bathed his side as per directions and it eased the pain and after the application the pain ceased and I have heard no complaint since. I consider the Panacea a medicine that every family should have and one that I do not wish to be without.

He went to Seek his Fortune.

He went to seek his fortune, girls,
And such a search had he,
He wandered East—he wandered West—
By land, and mount and sea;
When every shore he travelled o'er
And proved it vain to roam,
He turned about, where he set out,
And found it nearer home!
And found it nearer home, my girls,
Away from shore and sea;
For Fortune's gate is fixed as fate,
Till woman finds the key!

So I became his fortune, girls,
His dearest wealth in life;
And oft he's told the best of gold
Was in a careful wife!
He wonders yet how he could set
On such a quest to roam;
For 'tis confessed that fortune's chest
Is ever found at home!
Is ever found at home, my girls,
Away from shore and sea;
Though fortune's box has double locks,
We girls, would find the key!

The Folly of Wishing to be President.

[From the New York Post, October 17th.]

An intelligent gentleman who has recently visited Washington, says that he found the question "who is to be the next President?" mingling itself more or less with all other public questions. "Its shadow," said he "is everywhere." A few considerations relating to this subject have occurred to us, which we would like to lay before our readers, and especially before those, if they ever look at our daily sheet, who cherish the hope that they may hereafter be elected to the Presidency of the United States. The number of persons comprised in this class is by no means small. It includes probably several hundred men in every State, not only in civil life, but in the army. You can hardly send a man to the United States Senate, but he begins to think of being one day President. Make a soldier a General, and the tempter whispers in his ear he may yet be Commander-in-Chief of the armies of the republic. The class of suitors for that high office is so large that it includes even Horatio Seymour and Fernando Wood, to say nothing of less notorious but scarcely less worthy names.

Some of these persons are past all benefit from any admonition of ours. But there are others, not yet wholly spoiled by political life who may perhaps be made to see that to be always thinking about being at some time or other a candidate for the Presidency, and always shaping their public conduct with a view to attain that object, is very certain to make them less useful and less respected in public life than they otherwise would be, and almost as certain to bring upon them in the end the bitterest disappointment. There is scarce any chapter in those ample records which illustrate the vanity of human wishes, abounding more in signal instances, and more instructive, if read aright, than that which relates the failures of distinguished men who have aspired to the Presidency of the United States.

Among the number of those who have made it the ambition of their lives to fill that office, and have died in old age without having reached it, are some of our ablest public men. Calhoun was always looking forward to the Presidency, and always ready to listen to those who approached him with plans for bringing his name before the people as a candidate. Old age crept upon him in the midst of his aspirations, and he died with the strongest wish of his heart unfulfilled. Clay, as the great champion of the American system, and the leader of a party among whom were many who bore him an almost fanatical attachment, naturally thought himself destined to the Presidency. His system triumphed in Congress, but he, for one dreary term of the Presidential office after another, to the end of his life, looked in vain for an election by the people. Webster deemed the office of Chief Magistrate due to his splendid talents and his long course of public service, and after his support what were called the Compromise measures of 1850, imagined that he had secured a nomination to the Presidency, with a fair chance of success by the vote of the South; but the Southern politicians set his claims aside with so little ceremony that the mortification he endured is thought to have hastened his death. One of the most remarkable examples of ineffectual intrigue for the Presidency was that of John Tyler, who, having been elected Vice President, became by the death of President Harrison the actual Executive of the Federal Government, and for three years employed, with great diligence, all the influence his station gave him with the avowed purpose of securing his election to the Presidency for the succeeding term. The result was a most ridiculous failure, and showed how little power a President has to influence the politics of the country after his official term has expired. There were scarce five hundred men in the country who really desired that Mr. Tyler should hold his office for another term.

There are other distinguished citizens yet alive whose eyes have been fixed for years, and fixed in vain, on the great political prize of the Presidency. Mr. Cass is one of these—a man of amiable character and acknowledged talent, whose public course was most injuriously and lamentably affected by his efforts to reach the Presidency. Now that he has withdrawn from public life, and expects no longer a nomination from any party, his political judgments are freer and sounder, and their expression more frank and decided. Mr. Fillmore is another example. From the time that the death of President Taylor cast upon him the functions of Chief Magistrate, and he consented to support the Compromise measures of 1850, he has been hankering for the Presidency. He could not, however, with all the patronage his station gave him, procure for himself a respectable vote in the election of the next President. We fear that Mr. Fillmore is not recovered from the idle fancy that he may again be brought forward by his friends with some chance of success, and that he has not attained that state of unbiassed and unclouded judgment of political matters which his venerable rival, Mr. Cass, now enjoys.

There are two men who long coveted the station of President and attained it at last, Mr. Van Buren and Mr. Buchanan. Mr. Van Buren did not owe the office to any pains which he had taken to prepare himself for it, or to ingratiate himself with the people. If these had been his only means of acquiring it he would have died a disappointed man. His political adversaries were indiscreet enough to reject his nomination as Minister to Great Britain, and General Jackson and the people, deeming him persecuted, were determined to make up to him the loss of that post by giving him the Presidency, and they gave it. Mr. Van Buren's administration was an able one; yet nobody could fail to see that the desire to stand well with the politicians—particularly those of the South—made it, in some respects, less firm and uncompromising than it should have been, and gave encouragement to that faction which afterwards seized the entire rule of the nation, and which finally attempted the utter demolition of the Union.

Mr. Buchanan, of all those who have held the Presidential office, is the only one who may be said to have obtained it by what he has done to earn it. The part he took in the infamous Ostend manifesto, his uniform subserviency to the Southern politicians and the weakness of his character, pointed him out as the convenient tool of the slaveholders. They took him up, and, with the help of the Northern Democrats, made him President; nor were they disappointed in what they expected of him. But he had so debased his own character in accustoming himself to the sacrifices of principle and conscience which were required of him by the politicians by whom he had long been surrounded, he had so divested himself of all manly spirit and all regard for the welfare of his country, that his administration forms the blackest page in our political history, and his retreat into private life was followed by the hisses of the people whose interests he had shamefully betrayed.

This is a melancholy history. There is not one of the persons mentioned in this recital who was not the worse statesman for wishing to be President. With the exception of Buchanan, there was not one whose chances of success were improved by his desire to obtain the office—and, in the case of Buchanan, success was dearly purchased by infamy. There is no safe course for one engaged in political life, whatever may be his talents or whatever the degree of favor he enjoys with the people, but to exclude the idea of obtaining the Chief Magistracy from his thoughts. Gen. Jackson once said that the Presidency was a thing neither to be sought nor declined. Half of the saying is most true; the Presidency is not a thing to be sought. Seeking it emasculates, if it does not corrupt the character of a public man; and what is at first regarded as a prudent reserve of opinion, may, in a veteran politician, end in an utter desertion of principle.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

Colds, Coughs, and Hoarseness.

BRIMFIELD, Mass., 20th Dec., 1855.

DR. J. C. AYER: I do not hesitate to say the best remedy I have ever found for Coughs, Hoarseness, Influenza, and the concomitant symptoms of a Cold, is your CHERRY PECTORAL. Its constant use in my practice and my family for the last ten years has shown it to possess superior virtues for the treatment of these complaints. EBEN KNIGHT, M. D.

A. B. MORTLEY, Esq., of UTICA, N. Y., writes: "I have used your PECTORAL myself and in my family ever since you invented it, and believe it the best medicine for its purpose ever put out. With a bad cold I should sooner pay twenty-five dollars for a bottle than do without it, or take any other remedy."

Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza.

SPRINGFIELD, Miss., Feb. 7, 1856.

BROTHER AYER: I will cheerfully certify your PECTORAL is the best remedy we possess for the cure of Whooping Cough, Croup, and the chest diseases of children. We of your fraternity in the South appreciate your skill, and commend your medicine to our people. HIRAM CONKLIN, M. D.

AMOS LEE, Esq., MONTEREY, IA., writes, 3d Jan., 1856: "I had a tedious Influenza, which confined me in doors six weeks; took many medicines without relief; finally tried your PECTORAL by the advice of our clergyman. The first dose relieved the soreness in my throat and lungs; less than one half the bottle made me completely well. Your medicines are the cheapest as well as the best we can buy, and we esteem you, Doctor, and your remedies, as the poor man's friend."

Asthma or Phthisic, and Bronchitis.

WEST MANCHESTER, PA., Feb. 4, 1856.

SIR: Your CHERRY PECTORAL is performing marvellous cures in this section. It has relieved several from alarming symptoms of consumption, and is now curing a man who has labored under an affection of the lungs for the last forty years.

HENRY L. PARKS, Merchant.

A. A. RAMSEY, M. D., ALBION, MONROE CO., IOWA, writes, Sept. 6, 1855: "During my practice of many years I have found nothing equal to your CHERRY PECTORAL for giving ease and relief to consumptive patients, or curing such as are curable."

We might add volumes of evidence, but the most convincing proof of the virtues of this remedy is found in its effects upon trial.

Consumption.

Probably no one remedy has ever been known which cured so many and such dangerous cases as this. Some no human aid can reach; but even to those the CHERRY PECTORAL affords relief and comfort.

ASTOR HOUSE, NEW YORK CITY, March 5, 1856.

DOCTOR AYER, LOWELL: I feel it a duty and a pleasure to inform you what your CHERRY PECTORAL has done for my wife. She had been five months laboring under the dangerous symptoms of Consumption, from which no aid we could procure gave her much relief. She was steadily failing, until Dr. Strong, of this city, where we have come for advice, recommended a trial of your medicine. We bless his kindness, as we do your skill, for she has recovered from that day. She is not yet as strong as she used to be, but is free from her cough, and calls herself well.

Yours, with gratitude and regard,
ORLANDO SHELBY, of Shelbyville.

Consumptives, do not despair till you have tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is made by one of the best medical chemists in the world, and its cures all round us bespeak the high merits of its virtues. — Philadelphia Ledger.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills.

THE sciences of Chemistry and Medicine have been taxed their utmost to produce this best, most perfect purgative which is known to man. Innumerable proofs are shown that these PILLS have virtues which surpass in excellence the ordinary medicines, and that they win unprecedentedly upon the esteem of all men. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. Their penetrating properties stimulate the vital activities of the body, remove the obstructions of its organs, purify the blood, and expel disease. They purge out the foul humors which breed and grow distemper, stimulate sluggish or disordered organs into their natural action, and impart healthy tone with strength to the whole system. Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of every body, but also formidable and dangerous diseases that have baffled the best of human skill. While they produce powerful effects, they are, at the same time, in diminished doses, the safest and best physic that can be employed for children. Being sugar-coated, they are pleasant to take; and being purely vegetable, are free from any risk of harm. Cures have been made which surpass belief were they not substantiated by men of such exalted position and character as to forbid the suspicion of untruth. Many eminent clergymen and physicians have lent their names to certify to the public the reliability of my remedies, while others have sent me the assurance of their conviction that my Preparations contribute immensely to the relief of my afflicted, suffering fellow-men.

The Agent below named is pleased to furnish gratis my American Almanac, containing directions for their use and certificates of their cures of the following complaints:

Costiveness, Billious Complaints, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Heartburn, Headache arising from a foul Stomach, Nausea, Indigestion, Morbid Inaction of the Bowels, and Pain arising therefrom, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, all Ulcerous and Cutaneous Diseases which require an evacuant Medicine, Scrofula or King's Evil. They also, by purifying the blood and stimulating the system, cure many complaints which it would not be supposed they could reach, such as Deafness, Partial Blindness, Neuralgia and Nervous Irritability, Derangements of the Liver and Kidneys, Gout, and other kindred complaints arising from a low state of the body or obstruction of its functions.

Do not be put off by unprincipled dealers with other preparations which they make more profit on. Ask for AYER'S PILLS, and take nothing else. No other they can give you compares with this in its intrinsic value or curative powers. The sick want the best aid there is for them, and they should have it.
